THIS WEEK

---

WEEK 3: JANUARY 23, 25

Wednesday, January 23

- 1) Post e-sketchbook entry
- 2) You need to make the revisions I noted on your work and repost back to your folder by 9pm on Wednesday.
- 3) Then also repost your power point with your written notes (in normal mode of power point) to the Shared Folder on the website.
- 4) Continue progress on your project.

Friday, January 25

- 1) review each other's power point and write comment back to each other via email. You must cc me on the email so I can confirm you are providing your comments to each other
- 2) Continue progress on your project.
- 3) Email me an update.
- 4) Post any work you would like for me to review for you. Do this under a heading you create in your folder called "StudentInitialsPosting for Comment Date" List the date as monthdayyear (ex. 012508) so, it may look like this: ATPostingforComment012508

NOTE:

While you are not required to post work unless you have a specific deadline on that day, the posting indicated on #4 is a tool for you so that you can receive feedback from me. This is in addition to your sketchbook. Think of it this way...often we keep a sketchbook to help stimulate our ideas. They can include many things and they are rather personal when it comes to how we choose to develop our projects. Sometimes they have notes from a site visit, or something interesting we read that might help us later with the project, you all know what I mean...but this is different than posting some work for me to look over and make comment on. That is more like what you would show me in studio as we sit one-on-one
